After which His Majesty was pleased to make a Most Gracious Speech from the Throne to both Houses of Parliament; as followeth, viz.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

ALTHOUGH the Business of this Session has required a longer Attendance than may have been consistent with your private Convenience; yet I am persuaded that you look back with Satisfaction on the Time you have employed in a faithful Discharge of your Duty to your Country, in the present arduous and critical State of Public Affairs.

I cannot let you depart into your respective Countries, without assuring you of My entire Approbation of your Conduct, and of My perfect Confidence in the Loyalty and good Affections of this Parliament.

The Zeal and Ardor which you have shewn for the Honor of My Crown, your firm and steady Support of a just Cause, and the great Efforts you have made to enable Me to surmount all the Difficulties of this extensive and complicated War, must convince the World that the ancient Spirit of the British Nation is not abated or diminished.

In the Midst of these Difficulties, you have formed Regulations for the better Management and Improvement of the Revenue; you have given additional Strength and Stability to Public Credit; and your Deliberations on the Affairs of the East India Company have terminated in such Measures as will, I trust, produce great and essential Advantages to My Kingdoms.

I have

[Price Three-Pence Halfpenny.]

I have obſerved, with much Satisfaction, that during the Courſe of that important Buſineſs your Attention was not more anxiouſly directed to the Benefits to be derived from the Territorial Acquiſitions, than to the Happineſs and Comfort of the Inhabitants of thoſe remote Provinces.

Whatever may remain to be done for ſecuring thoſe valuable Poſſeſſions, and for reſtraining the Abuſes to which they are peculiarly liable, you will, I doubt not, proceed to provide for at your next Meeting, with the ſame Wiſdom and Temper that have governed your late Proceedings and Enquiries.

Gentlemen of the Houſe of Commons,

My particular Thanks are due to you for the ample Proviſion you have made for the Service of the current Year. I ſee with great Pleaſure that you have had it in your Power to apply ſo large a Sum to the Diſcharge of the Debt of the Navy, and that the Supplies which you have granted have been raiſed in a Manner the leaſt burthenſome to the Property and Induſtry of My faithful People.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

While I lament the Continuance of the preſent Troubles, and the Extenſion of the War, I have the conſcious Satisfaction to reflect that the conſtant Aim of all my Councils has been to bring back My deluded Subjects in America to the Happineſs and Liberty they formerly enjoyed, and to ſee the Tranquillity of Europe reſtored,

To defend the Dominions and to maintain the Rights of this Country, was, on My Part, the ſole Cauſe, and is the only Object of the War. Peace is the earneſt Wiſh of My Heart; but I have too firm a Reliance on the Spirit and Reſources of the Nation, the powerful Aſſiſtance of My Parliament, and the Protection of a juſt and all-ruling Providence, to accept it upon any other Terms or Conditions than ſuch as may conſiſt with the Honour and Dignity of My Crown, and the permanent Intereſt and Security of My People.

Then the Lord Chancellor, by His Majeſty's Command, ſaid,

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

IT is His Majeſty's Royal Will and Pleaſure, That this Parliament be prorogued to Thurſday the 13th Day of September next, to be then here holden; and this Parliament is accordingly prorogued to Thurſday the 13th Day of September next.
